

Welcome to Cornell Book Share!

The platform where you can buy, sell, or donate used textbooks with other Cornellians.

Introduction:

Textbooks are expensive and we are here to solve that problem. Cornell Book Share is an extension on Canvas available to all Cornell University students. The platform uses the student's log in information from Canvas to create a profile that allows the students to buy, sell, or donate used textbooks with other Cornell University students on the platform. The platform aims to help Cornell University students buy their textbooks for affordable prices and with convenience. The platform will also allow students to sell their textbooks for prices close to what they would have received from third party websites without the hassle of creating a profile or the headache that comes with shipping. And for students who are feeling generous, Cornell Book Share will offer the opportunity to donate textbooks to other Cornellians. To help students share books conveniently, Cornell Book Share offers many features that significantly improve the experience of buying and selling textbooks for Cornell Students.

Buying textbooks:

A screenshot of the Cornell Book Share web application. At the top is a banner with the Cornell Book Share logo. Below the banner is a navigation bar with four links: "Home", "Buy/Share Books", "Services", and "About". The "Services" link is highlighted. Below the navigation bar is a section titled "Select the services you are looking for" with three radio button options: "Book Buy" (selected), "Book Share", and "Book Sell". Below these options is a "Submit" button. Underneath the "Submit" button is a link for "Music of the week". At the bottom of the page is a video player showing a bookshelf and a red door, with a progress bar indicating 0:00 / 3:22.

With Cornell Book Share, buying used textbooks online is now easier than ever. Cornell Book Share offers many ways of finding the correct textbook. Students can use the search feature in the platform to find the textbook they need. Or they can navigate the website to get to the book page by choosing the college → department → class to find the required textbook. Cornell Book Share also uses the student's class schedule from Canvas to recommend the required textbooks to the students without the need to search for the textbooks. Buying textbooks online can lead to buying the wrong book or the wrong edition, with Cornell Book Share students never have to worry about that.
